Applicant's arguments filed 9-4-02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The claims remain rejected for the reasons of record.

Applicant's letter fails to address the rejections which are repeated below.

Applicant should note that when claiming an invention that has an incredible use or is an amazing breakthrough, substantial data and explanation is required in order to properly demonstrate and define how to make and use the invention. Further invention/evidence as was presented in the letter of 9/4/02 was not supported by the original specification- if applicant wanted to claim the new invention, a C-I-P would need to be filed.

Applicant must describe his invention in detail in order to place the invention into the public's hands.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention and as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

Art Unit: 1651

The claim(s) are narrative in form and replete with indefinite language. The structure or composition which goes to make up the invention must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. Note the format of the claims in the patent(s) cited.

Applicant's claims do not clearly define the invention. Please note that the language of a claim must make it clear what subject matter the claim encompasses to adequately delineate its "metes and bounds". Applicant has not defined the parameters of the invention particularly in that claim 1 calls for the use of "the process of liquefaction" but does not define that process.

The courts have also indicated that before claimed subject matter can properly be compared to the prior art, it is essential to know what the claims do in fact cover.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention lacks patentable utility.

Applicant claims (apparently) that a homogenation of brain & kidney tissue can be used to cure heart disease, renal failure, strokes, Chron's disease, asthma, diabetes and paralysis. This is considered to be an incredible utility because there is no evidence or sound scientific reasoning to support this incredible utility. Applicant has not presenting any data at all showing any activity to correlate to this broad spectrum cure for the diverse diseases claimed.

Claims 1-8 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph. Specifically, since the claimed invention is not supported by either a credible asserted utility or a well established utility for the reasons set forth above, one skilled in the art clearly would not know how to use the claimed invention.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention nor does the specification enable one skilled in the art to make or use the claimed invention.

Art Unit: 1651

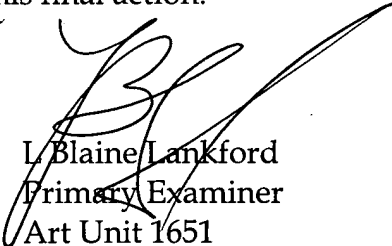

The specification also omits elements critical or essential to the practice of the invention, and thus the claims are not enabled by the disclosure. See In re Mayhew, 527 F.2d 1229, 188 USPQ 356 (CCPA 1976).

Applicant does not clearly describe how to make or use the claims rejection, in that there is no defined procedure for making the used composition or any supported description of a demonstrated activity.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
